PHYSICAL MAP OF THE WORLD
illustrating the
WINDS OF DIFFERENT REGIONS, with
THE PRINCIPAL HYDROGRAPHIC BASINS OF EITHER CONTINENT

Explanation.
The arrows point the direction towards which the prevailing winds blow, within the portions of the Map over which they are marked. Thus, indicates a wind blowing towards the south west—that is, a North East wind—and the reverse.
The arrows marked with half points, and in opposite directions, indicate the periodical changes of wind that belong to those regions.
Direction of Cyclones

Reference to Colours
Drainage of ARCTIC OCEAN — Brown
D° ATLANTIC OCEAN — Red
D° PACIFIC OCEAN — Yellow
D° INDIAN OCEAN — Purple
Regions of Inland Drainage

Explanation.
The italic figures placed after the names of rivers indicate their length, in English miles. The roman figures, within brackets, express the area of the respective river basins, in English square miles.
The figures written along the isothermal lines (in the smaller hues) mark the temperatures of Fahrenheit in degrees.
